ALSOPS JOIN PREACHERS OF ATOMIC WAR

Moscow, Soviet Home Service, Mar. 26, 1955, 0545 GMT--L

(From Material In PRAVDA--Note on International Topics by Chichkov: "The American Brothers--Atomaniacs")

(Text)

The American journalists, the Alsop brothers, have been well known for some time as the spokesmen of the most aggressive circles of the United States. Obeying the wish of their masters they yelled some time ago about the so-called "Soviet Iron Curtain," then they switched over to the propaganda of the alleged threat of the Soviet Union, and now, in accordance with the American fashion, the brothers are hurriedly taking their place in the ranks of those preaching atom war.

In this connection they lay claims to first place and openly try to surpass their colleagues. The militant sermons of the Alsop brothers resound from the pages of the New York HERALD TRIBUNE, THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, and from other American publications. This is, for instance, what they write about the policy of the Truman Government which preceded the present U.S. Government:
